I still remember the look on your face and you running around like operating room like a crazy guy when the Dr. told you that there was a mistake and the baby was a boy and not a girl (Beegiz ). You were running around yelling "He's got blank blanks" and everyone in the operating room was laughing :). I had lost the bet and you won, you got to name him..lol I knew then I was going to be in for a crazy ride. I'll never forget Louie's first Easter when you bought enough candy, toys, and grass to fill the whole house just so he and BJ could have an Easter Egg Hunt before we got to grams , because the big kids always beat 'em to the goods. You broke my vacuum that day with all the lil pieces of grass and glitter you threw all over. I will remember all the Christmas eve's when you would stay up wrapping each presents with Pat and Trina individually so the kids had to unwrap forever in the morning. You never let us just put em all in a few gift bags like I wanted to. I will forever cherish and be grateful for all the memories good, bad, happy , sad because at the end of the day it molded and shaped us into the person we are today. I know the wings you received and the ride you got to take you to Grama Ria are far better than any Limo ride you had down here.... You found the peace and harmony you had been searching for, for so long.. Now that you are wrapped in you mother's arms I know you will Rest Easy Bern... Thanks for the crazy ride and the two firecrackers.. You enjoy your next Fourth of July display because I know it will be more beautiful and amazing than any of us can ever imagine....Be well my friend always and forever....
